Play is often talked about
as if it were a relief from serious learning.
But for children
play is serious
learning.
Play is really
the work of childhood.

Welcome to School

At PIPS, we believe every child belongs. Our dedicated teachers, parents, and carers work together to nurture a warm, inclusive space where children feel safe, inspired, and valued. Through play, exploration, and structured routines, students grow in confidence while discovering the joy of learning. Each day brings new opportunities—whether it's trying an exciting activity, building friendships, or developing skills that help them thrive. At PIPS, school isn't just a place to learn; it's where children become happy, curious, and caring members of our vibrant community.

All About Me

At PIPS, we celebrate how every child is wonderfully unique! Our days will be filled with discoveries about our bodies, emotions, favourite things, and all the special qualities that make us who we are. Through gentle activities, we'll explore family connections and the beautiful diversity in our classroom community. Little ones will develop key skills through music, movement, and sensory play – they'll shake instruments, create colourful art, and express themselves in all sorts of creative ways. We'll introduce simple, joyful mindfulness moments to help recognise and navigate those big feelings, building confidence and comfort in our nurturing environment.

Autumn

Autumn is a great time to learn about seasonal changes and the beautiful array of colours. Young children can enjoy engaging sensory activities during this season, such as gathering and raking leaves and experiencing different natural textures. At PIPS, children will have the opportunity to observe the Mid-Autumn Festival. This festival holds great significance as families and friends come together for a reunion meal and express gratitude. Participating in customs like eating mooncakes and admiring the full moon are important traditions during this time.

Did you know?

Play is important. It is essential to a child's learning, development, confidence, and well-being.

At PIPS, children are given a safe environment and time to play. Whether they are engaged in solitary or group play, free play or guided play, indoor or outdoor play, there will be opportunities to engage in a variety of play to nurture physical, cognitive, and social relationships. Through play and promoting exploration and curiosity, children learn to interact with others, build relationships, and learn and understand more about the world around them. Thus, play is paramount to preparing children with essential skills, a joy of learning, happiness, and success in the future.
